HONDURAS SHG WASHED MARCALA ORGANIC - LAS ADELFA

Located in the very middle of Central America, Honduras is a country that shows off with its natural beauty. Endless forests meet lone roads cutting through. Some people even refer to Honduras as the „green lung“ of Central America. Some of the lush mountain ranges are dedicated to the sweet and nutty Honduran coffees we have grown so fond of.

In the Western part of the country, the famous coffee region Marcala is located. It is also one of the poorest states in the country where there are high rates of malnutrition and poverty. People are highly dependent on coffee and agriculture. Luckily, this region is also known for its high altitudes and its specialty coffees. Many coffee farmers in Marcala own only a small patch of land, producing a few bags of coffee cherries each year. Thus, they team up in cooperative structures to jointly bring their coffees to market. The cooperatives who supply Las Adelfas to us engage in initiatives that train farmers in agricultural productivity and ensure sustainable practices. Organic farming plays a vital role in the Marcala region overall and has a long-standing history at our trusted partner-cooperatives.

We are happy to offer you the Las Adelfas organic selection that comes with a very smooth body and unites a fruity acidity with nutty and chocolatey notes.
